

FHC Conference Workshop Proposal Submission Information

About the FHC Conference

The Florida Housing Conference is one of the largest statewide affordable housing conferences in the country and assembles a wide variety of housing professionals, local and state government staff and officials, and members of the private sector to gain valuable training on current housing issues. Housing affects every facet of our lives, and so the FHC Annual Conference covers a wide array of housing issues: housing and disaster, ending homelessness, planning and housing, public and private housing finance, housing construction and rehabilitation, and many others.

The Conference is attended by more than 900 affordable housing professionals from across the state. They represent every industry involved in housing: from developers to case workers, from urban planners to community activists, and from CEOs to affordable housing administrators.

Call for Workshop Proposals

Do you have an innovative idea, a great development, or an impactful strategy? The Florida Housing Coalition is accepting workshop proposals from our members and partners.

What are we looking for?

We are looking for innovative content on emerging and critical topics in the area of affordable housing- we are open to whatever you think will be of benefit to our conference participants. Workshops must: fit within a 75-minute timeframe; allow time for questions; and be innovative and engaging.

Complete the form below to submit your workshop proposal. The submission deadline is March 13, 2020.

Review and Selection Process

We are holding 4 workshop slots open for ideas received through this process. The selection will be made by the Florida Housing Coalition.

The FHC will advise the proposer of whether the workshop proposal was accepted by April 10, 2020. If selected, FHC will work with you to build a finalized workshop, complete with speakers, and a moderator.
